

A CLOSER LOOK AT Darwin

Darwin drew inspiration from an earlier scientist named Lamarck.
Use the boxes to compare their two different theories.

Darwin traveled all over the world, but one of his more famous expeditions was to the Galapagos Islands. It was there that he observed a species of bird called the finch. He noticed that the finches had different beak shapes that matched the types of food they were eating. He wondered if they had changed over time to adapt to their new environment on the different islands.
