2. Identify the actors that facilitate economic globalization
3. Define the world system theory

Lesson 1: The Global Economy

Economy is the basic foundation which should be given primary importance and it also influences the condition of the society as well as the politics. In which the worldwide economic status of one country clearly shows that economic mobility is considered as a major factor in competing in the global arena. Where the rich become more richer and the poor become poorer.

Economic relationship was established then where Philippines bartered goods with China such as porcelains, silk, and other goods. The Galleon trade which was implemented by the Spaniards in the Philippines. The silk road which was introduced by China as the oldest international trade route where goods transported to the other side of the globe.

The fears of another Depression after World War II led to the Bretton Woods system in 1944. This was an attempt to create institutional structures which would foster international economic cooperation and encourage the free flow of capital around the world. The US dollar was adopted as the standard, almost a "global currency," in order to establish stable international exchange rates.

The Bretton Woods system led to the
