Professional Development Programs Lane Andrew, 2006 Many people feel mathematics education in the U S is in need of improvement Fennema and Franke 1992 note that teachers knowledge or lack thereof is often associated with poor instruction and thus low student achievement on instruments which measure mathematical aptitude For this reason universities across the country have become mathematical and pedagogical re training grounds for future novice and even experienced teachers Fennema et al 1996 indicate that the object of many professional development programs is to instill in teachers the kind of knowledge which will enable them to modify their own teaching so that students understand mathematics in a more meaningful way But these authors also note that there is little agreement and even less evidence pointing to what specific knowledge is actually needed by teachers in order for them to better facilitate mathematical understanding among their students Is it merely more formal mathematical knowledge Is it exposure to reformed style classroom environments Is it more pedagogical knowledge If so is it a matter of becoming better trained in certain instructional strategies Or is it understanding how young people normally think about mathematical ideas their misconceptions their innate abilities Several professional development programs are currently being used in an attempt to explore and answer these questions Ball 1995 I will be outlining two approaches to professional development in the following essay The first is Cognitively Guided Instruction CGI and the second is Math As Text MAT I will begin by briefly outlining how the program is implemented I will also include information on the benefits it has shown for elementary teachers and in the case of CGI student benefits as well I will finish by describing which approach I would use and how I would implement my approach thinking as outlined by Cognitively Guided Instruction The Big Math Shift Jeffrey Lindstrom,2005 Effects of a Cognitively Guided Instruction Gavriela Ziu-Pires,2012 In this thesis the teacher s knowledge on the types of problems that exist in mathematics is discussed Also this thesis identifies the teacher s awareness on children s solution to the problems as well as students development of number concepts In addition the study proposes based on data and research the need for meaningful professional development that engages teachers in reassessing their knowledge of mathematics This professional development will require teachers to reevaluate their knowledge by examining children s intuitive problem solving strategies Also teachers will need to examine the correlation between the intuitive process of problem solving in students and the students development of number concepts in a meaningful way A questionnaire was developed to collect data from teachers in a Connecticut school The questionnaire was administered in the winter and it was anonymous The questionnaire had a bubble system and the answers were analyzed in a scale from 1 through 4 consecutively corresponding to strongly disagree disagree agree and strongly agree In this particular district an student assessment is given three times a year in the primary grades for math and reading For the purposes of the research the winter assessment and the spring assessment were compared for two Kindergarten classes on one specific mathematical concept quantity discrimination The data was analyzed and the researcher statistically determined the effect of a Cognitively Guided Instruction Program on the specific concept of quantity discrimination by comparing the mean scores of pre and post assessments for the experimental and control groups

Professional Development 4 Using CGI in the Classroom 5 Institutional and Leadership Support for Adopting Implementing and Institutionalizing CGI and 6 Influences on Changing Educational Practices and Teacher and Administrator Beliefs as a Result of Implementing CGI The findings of the study indicate few differences between the three school sites in regards to their adoption and implementation of CGI teachers and administrators perceptions of the adoption and implementation of the CGI approach was generally positive teachers felt supported by the school and district leadership and believed they benefitted from the various training opportunities provided barriers and challenges identified possibly had a slowing effect on the process of fully implementing CGI implications for theory and practice such as the importance for solid professional development administrator support and the recognition that anything new is a process and the process of adopting and implementing innovations such as CGI progresses through stages This study concludes with three areas of recommendations 1 Recommendations for Institutionalizing and Sustaining Cognitively Guided Instruction in the Mountain View Elementary School District 2 Recommendations for Educational Institutions and 3 Recommendations for Future Research
