

COGNITIVE STIMULATION THERAPY

Sarah Paul and Sonia Glover

Introduction

CST for people with dementia was developed from the findings of two Cochrane reviews (Spector et al 1998a,b), incorporating aspects of psychological therapies found in scientifically rigorous trials, to improve cognition and behaviour significantly (Spector et al, 2001). A brief treatment for people with a mild to moderate dementia and a non-pharmacological intervention for cognitive symptoms & to maintain functioning are recommended by the National Institute of Clinical Excellence within their guidance on the management of dementia.

The Sherborne CST Group

Was inspired by the work of Spector, Thorgrimsen, Woods, Orrell (2007), whose work evidenced the benefit of regular cognitive stimulation for people with mild to moderate dementia.

The CMHT-OP had identified that there were people in the community who had memory loss but did not fit the criteria for Day Hospital attendance, and there was no local group provision for people with early memory loss.

"My wife has gained benefits from attending the CST Group. She found the company and a nice outlet. Sarah and Sonia are kind, helpful and encouraging. After the session she had a more positive outlook on life in general. It did be good to mix with others in similar situations."

Group Format

- Group members give the group a name and song that is sung each week.
- Same warm up activity each session
- Use of a reality orientation board containing information about the group.
- Specific theme on each session
- Group members offered choices and alternative activities and approaches.

How the effectiveness of the Group is measured

- Mood rating scale on attendance
- Monitoring progress sheet completed weekly
- Staff reflection
- Evaluation report
- Feedback from Clients and Carers

"We had enjoyed these sessions immensely. They have introduced her to new people (she is a real life span on the blue that) She always comes back smiling and looking forward to the next one. I think they have been a great help to her. I wish the group was 'real'."

How the Group is Run

- Weekly for a two hour session
- Minimum of two staff in attendance
- Maximum of eight group members
- Duration of 12 weeks

Group Themes

- Physical games
- Childhood
- Current affairs
- World map
- Team quiz
- Word and number games
- Being creative
- Orientation

Moving On

- After attending a CST Group many clients have been successfully signposted to further group activities within the Older Peoples Service and in the community.

"Thank you for getting me out of my house. It has kept me going rather than just sitting at home. I've met some lovely people and made new friends."

NICE guidelines on dementia in November 2006 state that:

"People with mild / moderate dementia of all types should be given the opportunity to participate in a structured group cognitive stimulation programme. This should be commissioned and provided by a range of health and social care workers with training and supervision. This should be delivered irrespective of any anti-dementia drug received by the person with dementia."

What is the purpose of the group?

- To actively stimulate and engage people with dementia
- To provide an optimal learning environment for strengthening existing resources
- To focus on implicit rather than explicit learning
- To stimulate all the senses
- To maximise peoples potential
- To provide a social outlet
