

Chapter 1

OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT

INTRODUCTION

Operations management is about how organisations create and deliver services and products. Everything you wear, eat, sit on, use, read or knock about on the sports field comes to you courtesy of the operations managers who organised its creation and delivery. Every book you borrow from the library, every treatment you receive in hospital, every service you expect in the shops and every lecture you attend at university – all have been created by operations managers. While the people who supervised their creation and delivery may not always be called operations managers, that is what they really are. And that is what this book is concerned with – the tasks, issues and decisions of those operations managers who have made the services and products on which we all depend. This is an introductory chapter, so we will examine what we mean by 'operations management', how operations processes can be found everywhere, how they are all similar yet different, and what it is that operations managers do (see Figure 1.1).
