

CAEL Long Writing Sample Answer

✓ interruption

In today's world, the notion that anthropology, the study of mankind, might be redundant as a subject of study at university is held by some. However, I tend to think that a thorough and solid understanding of humanity is maybe more important now than it has ever been.

✓ interruption

Conventional wisdom, however logical it may appear, provides a very shaky foundation for understanding the evolution of human societies. This lack of solidity is reflected in the reading where the author lays out the process by which grain was domesticated, beginning with the grinding of grain into a wheat paste and allowing it to ferment naturally before subjecting it to heat and baking it into bread. This idea, that an ingredient would need to be ground and cooked before becoming a food, transposes modern societies' norms onto prehistoric peoples. Anthropologists prevent that misconception from taking place and becoming accepted fact.

✓ passive

With their scientific evidence, anthropologists put forward a very different process that ultimately led to the first grain food being beer, not bread. The lecture describes how easily wheat sprouts into a food that is far more tasty, tender and nutrient rich than the original seed. No human effort is required during this natural process, just humidity. Given this delicious food that requires no heat or processing, and ultimately ferments into a beer-like food, it is unlikely that prehistoric people would have gone to the trouble of either grinding or cooking it.

✓ passive

All told, the study of anthropology should continue because it sheds a great deal of light on the evolution of human society. Without anthropology, we are left believing falsehoods that transfer our modern lifestyles onto prehistoric peoples resulting in an erroneous historical perspective.
