Cambridge Checkpoint Exam Papers 2014:

Didactics of Military Ethics Thomas R. Elßner, Reinhold Janke, 2016-04-08 The Iron Curtain fell over a quarter of a century ago. With it fell also the relatively straightforward Western assumption that war was going to be a bi-polar symmetrical affair, albeit one with nuclear overtones, an assumption around which the training and education of military officers had hitherto been built. The immediate post-Cold War period showed officers wearing a blue rather than a green helmet negotiating with opponents whom they ought not to call enemies and keeping the peace in situations where there was no peace to keep. Added to this was the phenomenon of international terrorism which manifested itself on the strategic rather than merely the tactical level. Counter-insurgency operations in Iraq and Afghanistan demonstrate how difficult it is to win the hearts and minds of the local population while subduing the enemy at the same time. With the distinction between what is morally right and wrong becoming ever more blurred, the moral dilemmas of officers and men have begun to multiply and the need to reconsider the basic assumptions and practices of military ethics education in this highly unpredictable world has become ever more urgent. This volume arising out of a conference held at the Centre for Leadership Development and Civic Education of the German Armed Forces attempts to address that need. It offers the insights both of officers with combat experience and academics closely familiar with military training and uniquely bridges the gap between theory and practice in the teaching of military ethics.

Women's Lives around the World Susan M. Shaw, Nancy Staton Barbour, Patricia Duncan Ph.D., Kryn Freehling-Burton Ph.D., Jane Nichols, 2018-01-04 Providing an in-depth look at the lives of women and girls in approximately 150 countries, this multivolume reference set offers readers transnational and postcolonial analysis of the many issues that are critical to the success of women and girls. For millennia, women around the world have shouldered the responsibility of caring for their families. But in recent decades, women have emerged as a major part of the global workforce, balancing careers and family life. How did this change happen? And how are societies in developing countries responding and adapting to women's newer roles in society? This four-volume encyclopedia examines the lives of women around the world with coverage that includes the education of girls and teens, the key roles women play in their families, careers, religions, and cultures, how issues for women intersect with colonialism, transnationalism, feminism, and established norms of power and control. Organized geographically, each volume presents detailed entries about the lives of women in particular countries. Additionally, each volume offers sidebars that spotlight topics related to women and girls in specific regions or focus on individual women's lives and contributions. Primary source documents include sections of countries' constitutions that are relevant to women and girls, United Nations resolutions and national resolutions regarding women and girls, and religious statements and proclamations about women and girls. The organization of the set enables readers to take an in depth look at individual countries as well as to make comparisons across countries

Foreign Relations of the GCC Countries Eman Ragab, Silvia Colombo, 2018-12-07 This book examines the foreign policies of the GCC countries six years after the Arab uprisings in terms of drivers narratives actions and outcomes paying particular attention to Middle Eastern countries Iran and Western international powers The assessment focuses on current affairs but also contributes to establishing a productive link between empirical studies and the existing theoretical frameworks that help explain the increasing foreign policy activism of the GCC countries All in all the articles collected in this book shed light on and provide a more solid and fine grained understanding of how regional powers like Saudi Arabia as well as the other smaller GCC countries act and pursue their interests in an environment full of uncertainty in the context of changing regional and global dynamics and power distribution The book brings together the articles published in a Special Issue of the International Spectator

Illusions of Control Erica L. Gaston, 2024-08-06 Over the last two decades the United States has supported a range of militias rebels and other armed groups in Afghanistan Iraq and Syria Critics have argued that such partnerships have many perils from enabling human rights abuses to seeding future threats Policy makers however have sought to mitigate the risks of partnering with irregular armed groups Militia group leaders in far flung corners of these war torn countries were subjected to background checks and instructed about international law and human rights and their funding was cut when they crossed red lines To what extent have such mechanisms curbed the dangers of proxy warfare and what unforeseen consequences has this approach unleashed Drawing on a decade of field research and hundreds of interviews with stakeholders Erica L Gaston unpacks the dilemmas of attempting to control proxy forces She demonstrates that although the tools U S policy makers used to constrain partners behavior increased in number and sophistication they never fully addressed the range of political security and legal concerns surrounding these forces Moreover by shifting policy makers calculations the use of proxy forces introduced additional moral hazards and may have enabled riskier decision making Featuring substantial empirical detail and close analysis of key internal debates Illusions of Control offers new perspectives on some of the most significant and controversial elements of recent U S security policy In addition to nuanced insights about proxy relationships this book provides a novel analytical toolkit for exploring transnational bargaining and foreign policy deliberations in hybrid political environments
