Biology: Biochemical Evidence for Evolution

Background Information: If two organisms have similar DNA molecules, they must have similar amino acids and thus similar proteins. Therefore, DNA comparisons can be made by examining the sequences of amino acids within a protein.

Scientists have long believed that similar DNA sequences indicate a common origin and ancestor. The more similar the DNA of two living organisms, the more closely related they may be to one another. Hemoglobin, a protein in red blood cells, has been studied. Scientists know the specific amino acids and their arrangements in hemoglobin molecules of humans, gorilla, and horses.

In this investigation, you will

- count and record the molecules of each amino acid present in similar portions of humans, gorilla, and horse hemoglobin.
- Count and record differences in the sequence of amino acids in similar portions of human, gorilla, and horse hemoglobin.
- Use this data to show how biochemical evidence can be used to support evolution.

Procedure

Part A: Amino Acid Sequence

- Read the amino acid sequences from left to right beginning at the upper right hand corner of figure 39-1. Compare the sequences of humans to the sequences of gorillas and horses. An example of a sequence difference between humans and horses is shown on figure 39-1.
- Record in Table 39-1 the total number of differences in the sequences of gorilla and human amino acids. Then repeat this for horse and human, and for gorilla and horse.

Table 39-1. Number of Amino Acid Sequence Differences

| Organisms | Number of Differences |
|-------------------|-----------------------|
| Gorilla and Human | |
| Horse and Human | |
| Gorilla and Horse | |

Using the information you collected, graph the differences between the three organisms below. Be sure to title your graph and label both axes.
