The Importance of accountability means being responsible for the decisions that are being made and taken. Accountability is the main element in leadership. Accountability builds up trust, improves performance, promotes ownership, and inspire confidence. It is all about being reliable and having clear standards.

Also, it is about communication and asking questions to make sure the task, or whatever is being done is completed in a timely matter. It can increase team member skills when it is done right and teaching others to value their work. As a soldier in the United States Army, I should take accountability for all of my actions and know that it is very important to respect my work, fellow soldiers, my time and theirs.

I need to take accountability serious, because it can be vital to others safety. Those that are unable to be accountable are the ones that jeopardize the combat readiness of any unit. Basically it is the understanding that from the bottom up. Top down and laterally everyone is going to do and is willing to do the right thing even when no one else is looking. In order for me to be accountable I need to take the meaning of it and put it to use.

I need to be at formation and work on time, being at the right place at the right time and doing the right thing always. Doing the job correctly and ensuring others do it as well and do it safely are all part of accountability in the military as one does not have to experience combat to understand that just being in the military is inherently dangerous given the types of equipment and weapons that are used to train and deploy with.

The way accountability plays its role in the Army, it's like the back bone that holds everything together by keeping chaos or commotion Murrell 1 Murrell 2 at bay. If accountability fails to be kept then it can cause a lot of disorderly conduct amongst the Army and society itself. Being accountable shows respect and earn respect from others. It can show someone that they can be taken seriously and they are not a waste of time.

Accountability is not just for the military either it goes for anyone and any workplace. Without accountability it will be know structure and more excuses. Your actions will rise abound your excuse if you accountable. But with accountability come with integrity, Integrity is basically someone who makes a choice to be honest before choosing between right and wrong. Without both a company, military, work environment, and school can have poor organizational development. The lesson and message here is to immediately accept responsibility for your honest mistakes. If be honest and accept my responsibility, and mistakes it will have a short life. If I lie and make excuses and it will only compound my mistakes and destroy my integrity. So my mission is to take accountability and show integrity to provide a better service to my Military and myself.
