Ninth Grade Writing Using the Writer's Workshop Stefanie R. Tschirhart-Jones, 2008 The question addressed was What does a 9th grade writing curriculum look like incorporating a writer s workshop It documents one teacher s plan to create a year long 9th grade writing curriculum using a writer s workshop only to find that writing cannot be taught using the same materials for all students each year Teachers need to teach to the strengths and weaknesses of their current students In the final product the author models how to assess students and use that assessment to guide instruction In her research Tschirhart Jones found that the most important factor in writing achievement is allowing students time to write which is the heart of the writer s workshop She shares the different parts of the writer s workshop and how this can benefit high school students She also shares how to adapt this model to the different constraints of a secondary classroom and how to create lessons for it Resources in Education ,1998 Baltimore Bulletin of Education ,1923 Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,1996 Keeping Pace with the Advancing Curriculum National Education Association of the United States.
